

Please Don't Read This Haiku

if I never vote
nary one election's changed none depend on one

if I don't eat meat
a lifetime of rice and beans no life would be spared

as one, I don't count
as many, we change the world:
stats' rude paradox

democracy dies
food-animal hordes perish
but civic duty

the moral is clear:
I should not write this haiku,
you should not read it

