

May We Long Endure*

this nation conceived twelve score and five years ago, we are met again

a new battlefield,
it is for us, the living,
to meet this grave test

a great task remains
before us, this century:
may we long endure?

let us not forget,
in our time's divided land, Lincoln's hopeful words:

government of ALL people, by ALL people, for ALL people, shall not perish from the earth.

*Phrasings adapted from Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, November 19, 1863

This poem may be reproduced and distributed by print, digital, and social media.

#StopVoterSuppression #PreserveDemocracy

Created: Juneteenth 2021

dandana.us/poems