

The Bridge Between

joined by life itself our two islands lie apart DNA ties us

uneven traffic energy sent, less returned black hole-like, at times cultures push and pull generations blur our sight cohorts tug away

both isles endure stress we're each moored to other side vision pierces fog

this span shall not fail force of will and love prevail bridge between us stands

Photo: Sarasota's Ringling Bridge, a handy metaphor

