

Introverts Unite!

it's tiresome, I'm told,
in coronavirus times,
to self-quarantine

social-distancing
violates primal instinct:
craving party scenes

we introverts smile,
relishing our quiet days,
savoring calm space

shall we all unite?
create a fraternity?
join in common bond?

or, read long-shelved books
or, binge on Netflix movies?
or, write a haiku?
