

Grandfather's Lament

Precious beyond any toll, their journey is launched. I once sailed their boat. They're the captains now. Yearning to know them, aching to be known by them—but they hold no debt. I'm a busker on their road to their futures. Few coins grace my hat. My duty is mostly served. Have a good trip, kids!

Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, 2007

31 October 2024
/8

dandana.us