

A Human Race

Which Sapiens ancestor first observed sunset's leftward march, wondering why it reversed direction at the far baobab tree every twelve moons? With scant evidence to explain the solstice, the Pleistocene's first astronomer and first priest debated truth. Thus, the race began. Humanism hangs in the balance.

21 December 2024

dandana.us