

Socrates

First, know nothing. Question received wisdom. Celebrate skepticism. Embrace ignorance. Think, feel, think again. Learn from students. Never graduate. Practice the craft of dialogue. Take the other side — your opponent is your teacher. Hubris poisons learning. Live once. Consider hemlock. He is the father of Western education. I am his son.

470 - 399 BCE

Convicted by Athenian authorities of ungodliness and corrupting the youth

Quote: The unexamined life is not worth living.
