

The Emigrant

My homeland is no longer my heartland. I loved, trusted, believed in her basic goodness. I was born of her, I absorbed her values—not all, but enough. Now overtaken by hate, guns, and toxic machismo, my heart no longer feels at home here. In my heart, I have emigrated.

6 April 2025

dandana.us