

Reason's Choice

If instinct charts my final course, 600 million years successfully evading hungry predators will compel my genes to preserve the flicker to its natural end. If reason takes command, I may ably judge future's pleasure versus pain, freely choosing my time and place. I patiently await reason's choice.

15 May 2025

dandana.us