

Torn Social Fabric

From Knoxville's one-room schoolhouse and Cox's General store to teacherless AI-based education and amazon.com—bookends of my historically well-timed lifespan. Change more rapid than a species whose stable cross-generational clans, evolving over millennia, can sustain. Our ancient social fabric is ripping at the seams—fertile seedbed for endemic war.

Photo: Knoxville, Missouri, today

2 June 2026

dandana.us/micros