

Minimalism

the more I can say with fewer words, the better
—I must choose wisely

between books' covers
find blank pages where truth lies,
awaiting my thoughts

my daily ambles, silenced of podcast prattle,
tell all I must know

this perfect sunset displays more of Nature's art than I can behold

this haiku quintet
holds eighty-five syllables
—I've reached my limit

16 September 2024

dandana.us/poems